ADVENTURE FILMMAKING 101 WITH ELLIE MACKAY

Co-Founder, Ellipsis Environmental and National Geographic Filmmaker

LEARN THE BASIC CONCEPTS BEHIND SUCCESSFUL ADVENTURE FILMMAKING

SUMMARY

Ellie gets back to basics and reveals the practical steps you need to turn your adventure dream into a screen worthy reality, from initial concept through to funding and post-production.

Whether you have a burning story to get out there but don't know exactly where to begin, or if you just want to refresh on the basics, this workshop is for you.

Ellie will introduce the basic concepts you need to start out, from how to choose the right (yet unique) style, what to shoot first, how-to guide (and give!) a good interview, how to gain permissions and where to get funding. Ellie will ensure you leave the workshop feeling inspired, motivated and confident in the knowledge of where to begin and get started.

This is a must for all aspiring filmmakers.

YOU WILL LEARN HOW TO:

- Choose the right yet unique style
- Pitch your ideas to funders and investors
- Generate high-quality production on tight budgets
- Decide what to shoot first and what to leave until last
- Secure rights and permissions from people and places
- Create meaningful partnerships that offer access and insight.

"I'm looking forward to sharing what I've learnt in the field for the 2nd year, and support those in the workshop to get their projects off the ground."

ABOUT ELLIE

Ellie is a multi award-winning freelance filmmaker, specialising in conservation and healthcare documentary, with a particular focus on telling the stories of those whose voices are not being heard.

She is a passionate and dedicated storyteller, driven to communicate complex ideas in an engaging and accessible way.

Ellie is also a keen advocate of youth activism and empowerment through education, and an ambassador for girls and women in STEM education and careers around the world.
